Carclew transformed for the Dusk Arts Market

What: Carclew Dusk Arts Market

When: Tuesday, December 8 between 6pm and 9pm

Where: Carclew, 11 Jeffcott Street, North Adelaide

Carclew's magnificent North Adelaide gardens will be transformed into the festive Dusk Arts Market on Tuesday, December 8.

The house and grounds will be bustling with stalls, live entertainment, exhibitions, food and children's art-making for this now annual event.

The Dusk Arts Market is the perfect opportunity to shop for bespoke Christmas gifts as the sun sets on Carclew's iconic palms.

Market stalls will feature an array of hand-crafted jewellery, ceramics and glassware and a selection of visual art, including prints, paintings and sculptural objects by South Australian artists and designers.

Carclew Chief Executive Tricia Walton said: "The Dusk Arts Market is one of the ways Carclew supports early career performers and visual artists".

"It's a great way to showcase their work to a wider audience. We had over 1600 visitors at last year's Dusk Arts Market and look forward to welcoming many more this year," Ms Walton said.

A variety of live music and entertainment by local talent will feature on the main stage. This will include hip hop/soul artist Nathan May, who received a Carclew Project and Development Grant earlier this year to record an EP of original music. Other artists will include Adelaide's premier sad songs choir, Choral Grief, a former recipient of Carclew funding.

Visual art exhibitions will include work by Carclew artists in residence and there will be information stalls from local arts organisations. Families can take advantage of the interactive art-making space.

A great selection of food vans and Alpha Box and Dice wines will be available.

Entry is by gold coin donation.
