Jane Doyle to Chair Carclew Board

Carclew Youth Arts is pleased to welcome Jane Doyle as the new incoming Chair of Carclew's Board of Directors.

The Channel Seven news reader and 5AA Radio breakfast presenter takes over from Kate Gould who has completed her term as Chair after four years.

Jane boasts a strong and well-rounded career in media and public relations with a deep passion for the arts, a powerful combination as she leads the organisation into a new phase.

"I'm looking forward to the challenges the next few years will bring for both myself and Carclew, and to being part of something vital to the development of young South Australian artists," said Jane.

Other appointments include Grant Archer, Ali Gumillya Baker and Anthony Peluso.

Grant Archer holds the position of Executive Manager, People & Strategy at Bedford Industries. Previously a Partner at Finlaysons, Grant brings to Carclew a strong background in legal practice and strategic business planning.

With an extensive background in the performing arts, Anthony Peluso is currently the Director of Community Engagement at Country Arts SA. Anthony was previously Artistic Director and Executive Producer at Country Arts SA and he has also held key artistic positions within the Adelaide Festival and Adelaide Symphony Orchestra.

Ali Gumillya Baker is an academic based at Flinders University, lecturing at the Yunggorendi First Nation Centre for Higher Education and Research. Previously the Chair of Kurruru Youth Performing Arts, Ali has a successful career in filmmaking and her work focusses on Indigenous Visual Arts and Indigenous representation in Cinema.

Carclew's Chief Executive Tricia Walton said, "We're delighted to welcome Jane, Grant, Anthony and Ali to the Carclew Board. Carclew has always had a strong Board of leaders and these new appointments are no exception".

"All four of the new Directors bring considerable and diverse experience which will be valuable in providing staff the support required to execute programming and projects planned for the next three years."
